

FLORA SPRINGS

NAPA VALLEY

BACKGROUND

Flora Springs is a Napa Valley winery owned and operated by the Komes-Garvey family founded in 1978.

From the beginning, Flora Springs was a labor of love for our family. Jerry and Flora Komes purchased the St. Helena property in 1977 as a place to retire and grow grapes. But when their children, John Komes and Julie (Garvey), began spending time here, they proposed making wine from the surrounding vines. Over forty-five years later, third-generation vintners and growers, Nat Komes, Sean Garvey and their cousins, run the winery and vineyards alongside John, Julie and their spouses.

Farming has always been our family's first passion, and over the years we have acquired acreage throughout Napa Valley, over 200 of which are planted to vines. Our estate properties are located in the famed sub-appellations of Oakville, Rutherford, St. Helena, and the last four decades have provided multiple opportunities to refine and experiment. We've used our time to innovate, continually testing new rootstocks, clones, trellising and irrigation systems, canopy management and other viticultural practices. And as a family with members who live on our properties, we have always committed ourselves to maintaining healthy ecosystems by practicing sustainable farming.

In 2019, our family made a deliberate decision to sell our original winery in St. Helena and put our resources into starting a new chapter for Flora Springs. Going against the industry trends of growth, acquisitions and mergers, we reduced our production by over half. We built a brand new bespoke winery with workflow and equipment custom-fit to our smaller wine lots. And we redeveloped our most prized vineyard sites, including the Komes Ranch, laying drainage tile, reconfiguring blocks and sub-blocks, amending soils and adjusting irrigation techniques.

Today, the increased control we have over each and every step of the winegrowing process sets a new bar for quality at Flora Springs, quality that can be felt and tasted in our flagship wines, Trilogy and Soliloquy, as well as the single vineyard wines we make from our own estate and esteemed grower-partners.

Flora Springs operates a Tasting Room in St. Helena located at 677 S. Saint Helena Highway. More information about visiting as well as our two membership clubs may be found at www.florasprings.com.
